Would Hurt
Pulpwood Market?

Pulpwood harvesting and transport are a vital industry in Southwest Arkansas, and if you've heard rumors that plastic paper is threatening to move in on our livelihood you should read the Wall Street Journal's appraisal of this would-be competitor.

The WSJ on July 11 published a survey showing that while paper is now being produced experimentally as a plastic its market is presently limited to the fine-paper field and may never reach the big-volume market such as the paper newspapers use, called newsprint.

Plastic paper would, of course, knock out pulpwood, for the plastic process is based on polymers. But the plastic product is high-priced—two to three times the cost of pulpwood paper. The authoritative Wall Street daily estimates volume production of the plastic may bring the price down to the level of the finer grades of pulpwood paper, but never can reach the bottom grades such as general publications and newspapers use.

The WSJ survey shows present production of plastic printing paper is only 15,000 tons a year—compared to 53 million tons of natural paper.

What the plastic people are shooting at, the survey continues, is the 100,000-tons-a-year market for premium coated papers. That's not a measurable part of the 53 million tons turned out by pulpwood mills.

The survey closes with a graphic quote:

"Plastic paper producers make in a year what a paper mill produces in a day."

These are the facts about plastic paper. They indicate that folks in the business of cutting and transporting pulpwood have little to worry about.

4 soldiers
are killed

SAIGON (AP) — Four Americans were killed in combat last week, five died from nonhostile causes and another five were missing in action, the U.S. Command announced in its weekly casualty report. Eighteen other Americans were wounded.

The week before, the command reported 14 combat dead, seven dead from nonhostile causes, four missing and 23 wounded.

The South Vietnamese command reported 661 government soldiers killed and 2,585 wounded last week. It claimed 3,320 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed. These represented increases of 15 to 25 per cent over the previous week, due largely to the fighting in Quang Tri Province.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,810 killed in action, 303,208 wounded, 10,234 dead from nonhostile causes, 1,639 missing or captured.

is reached

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Agreement was reached Wednesday by railroad representatives and the United Transportation Union calling for orderly elimination through attrition of jobs that would be affected if the state's full-crew train law is repealed in the November general election.

McGovern's No. 1!
Who will be No. 2?

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, winner of the Democratic presidential nomination, huddled today with a score of advisers over a list of possible running-mates.

The South Dakota senator, whose rise from political obscurity climaxed with a first-ballot victory Wednesday night, also summoned as many governors as he could muster to bolster a show of unity at the windup session of the national convention.

Frank Mankiewicz, national political director for McGovern, said he expected the choice of a vice-presidential candidate to be made shortly.

But an hour after Mankiewicz talked with newsmen surrounding McGovern's headquarters there was no word on who would take the spot spurned earlier "for very real personal vice-presidential possibilities today after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy rejected his bid.

Soon after the votes of Illinois sent McGovern's total soaring past the magic 1,500 mark in the jammed, brightly lit convention hall, and even before the official result had been announced, Kennedy phoned McGovern from Hyannis Port, Mass., to offer congratulations.

During their 15-minute talk, McGovern offered Kennedy the No. 2 spot for the race against President Nixon. Kennedy rejected it "for very real personal reasons," according to McGovern spokesman Richard Dougherty.

Earlier in the evening, Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, another prime prospect, told McGovern through aides he didn't want to be considered.

McGovern aides said the nominee would make no announcement about a running-mate before midday.

One close adviser said he felt the list of those under consideration was expanding as the victorious nominee sought the counsel of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, his defeated rivals whose withdrawal from contention a day earlier had signaled Wednesday night's triumph.

Those being mentioned include five senators — Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, Philip A. Hart of Michigan, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota; two governors, Ohio's John J. Gilligan and Wisconsin's Patrick Lucey, and labor leader Leonard Woodcock.

Within minutes after clinching the nomination, McGovern received congratulations and promise of support from all the candidates he had conquered, except Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. But labor leaders in particular remained bitterly opposed to the senator, as did many delegates.

One sign in the hall read: "McGovern Will Bomb—in November."

After two straight all-night sessions, the climactic round of nominating speeches proceeded swiftly, with little semblance of the old-time hoopla and floor demonstrations. At last the roll call was reached and, as the clock struck midnight, McGovern's nomination was assured.

Bedlam burst through the vast hall as supporters celebrated the victory of the man whose youthful legions had humbled the party's mighty.

Forty-five minutes later, when Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien announced the final totals, the hall again went wild. Jubilant McGovern workers, their long quest against what seemed overwhelming odds crowned at last with success, kissed and hugged one another.

A third roar went up five minutes later as O'Brien declared McGovern the party's nominee and designated a committee to inform him of his designation. The committee is headed by Ribicoff, who nominated McGovern in a losing quest four years ago and again Wednesday night as "a candidate tuned to the challenges of the future."

When the roll of states was concluded, McGovern had 1,728.35 votes — 219 more than he needed. After many votes had been changed, he wound up with 1,864.95.

Behind him, in order, came Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who inherited much of Humphrey's labor support, with 486.65; Wallace 377.50; Rep. Shirley Chisholm 101.45; former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina 69.5; Humphrey 35; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas 32.8; Muskie 20.8; Kennedy 10.65; Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio 5; former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota 2; and Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota 1.

McGovern + hard work = votes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A sense of history which told him times were changing and a passion for organization which helped his youthful armies beat the Old Guard at its own game are the simple secrets of George McGovern's boom from oblivion to presidential nomination.

There is little revolutionary about it. It's a story of hard work converted into votes at the Democratic National Convention which gave him the party's nomination Wednesday night.

If it seems miraculous that this could happen to a soft-spoken, Farm Belt senator whose name was recognized by only 5 per cent of the American public when he began his quest, there are some answers which make it more plausible.

—First of all, he carried a supreme self-confidence which assumed from the very start that he would win and led him and his staff to proceed even in the darkest days of the campaign as if he would.

—His organization became the envy of the political world for its thoroughness and efficiency.

—He recruited a staff which complemented all his best traits and shored up his weaknesses, and attracted untold thousands of devoted volunteers.

—He adopted a strategy which decided firmly a year and a half ago just what he had to do and how he would do it.

—His grasp of the time and just the right issues to use seemed to put him there first and to leave little ground for the competition.

McGovern got into the presidential game in 1968 when he picked up the fallen Robert F. Kennedy campaign and managed to get 146½ votes at the Chicago convention. He came away convinced that if he had started sooner, he might have won it all.

An immediate discouragement to any further presidential effort was the presence of a remaining Kennedy who was the logical heir to the Democrats' liberal wing. McGovern ultimately decided to go no matter what Sen. Edward M. Kennedy did, but Kennedy's personal tragedy at Chappaquiddick seemed to leave the field clear.

In the meantime, McGovern had taken on a job which was to lay the groundwork for his miracle. He became chairman of the Democrats' Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection, or the "McGovern Commission," as it came to be called.

This was the body, created at the Chicago convention, which was to reform the ancient methods by which Democrats nominated their presidential candidates and to assuage the anger of dissenters within the party.

McGovern was tapped for the job because the party leadership felt he was more moderate than such reformers as Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa, the chief instigator of the restructuring drive.

Mills gets 25 votes

By JOHN R. STARR

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Although they were disappointed because he had withdrawn as a candidate, a loyal Arkansas delegation gave Rep. Wilbur Mills 25 of its 27 votes Wednesday night in the balloting for the Democratic nomination for president.

They were voting as permitted by the rules of the Democratic National Convention for a man whose name had not been placed in nomination, a man they were already booming for the vice presidential nomination.

The two who did not vote for Mills—Steve Smith of Huntsville and Dewey Stiles of Malvern—were critical of Mills because Jim Johnson, a controversial figure in Arkansas politics, seemed to be an insider in the Mills campaign organization here.

Smith, who voted for the eventual winner, Sen. George McGovern, also criticized Mills for failing to meet formally with the Arkansans after they arrived in Miami Beach.

Stiles showed up at the caucus wearing a Jackson button.

$50,000 'car'
damaged in 1-car wreck

A rail dragster valued at more than $50,000 was heavily damaged, and a pickup truck which was towing the quarter-mile race car was completely destroyed following a one-vehicle crash on I-30 early today.

The driver of the 1972 Dodge pickup, Michael Walz of Fort Worth, told police officers he went to sleep just east of the State Highway 29 junction with I-30, and the truck left the road, overturned and caught fire.

Walz and his two passengers, Woody Halton of Cheverly Md., and Chip Woodall of Hurst, Tex., escaped from the inferno through a side window of the upside-down truck. The trailer containing the dragster was heavily damaged. The car was owned by Gene Snow of Fort Worth.

Members of the Hope Fire Department arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, and doused the blazing truck with water, keeping the flames from spreading to the trailer.

Members of the Hope Fire Department are partially hidden by swirling smoke from a fire-ravaged pickup which overturned on I-30 near Hope early this morning. The truck was towing a link in 'relay'

Neel is primary

State Trooper Robert Neel of Hope yesterday was a primary link in a cross-country relay—a relay that involved the transportation of a human eye from Baltimore to Texarkana in an attempt to save the sight of a four-year-old girl.

Neel picked up the eye, which was specially packed in a styrofoam container, in Prescott shortly after noon yesterday and carried it to the Arkansas-Texas State Line in Texarkana.

The eye left Baltimore on a jet early yesterday morning and arrived at Adams Field at Little Rock about 11 a.m. State Trooper Paul Halley was waiting to take it to Malvern on the first leg of a relay that also involved Troopers Lyndol Holcomb of Malvern, Cleo Lawson of Arkadelphia, Neel, and Mike Hall of Texarkana.

In a telephone interview early today, Neel said this was his second relay delivery of a human eye. "This is a special service the State Police tries to do whenever possible," he said. "We try to cooperate when we can."

Capt. Jim Ross, the State Police Public Information Officer, said the troopers traveled at "normal highway speeds" during the relay, which had been arranged before the eye arrived in Arkansas. The eye arrived at St. Michael's Hospital at Texarkana at 1:15 p.m. and Dr. Norris Newton, an ophthalmologist, began operating at 2 p.m.

The eye was found through the efforts of the Arkansas Lions Eye and Kidney Bank at Little Rock.

The eye was located at Baltimore through the efforts of Jack McSpadden, an amateur radio operator in Little Rock.

Only the cornea of the eye delivered from Baltimore was used in the operation on the Texarkana girl. Doctors are expected to know within a week whether the operation was successful.

Midnight is the 'whiching' hour

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It began quietly enough, with an invocation by Oral Roberts and some droning speeches and the band playing a long medley of old favorites. Everything was comin' up roses and happy days were here again.

Indeed, Wednesday could have gone down as the Night of No Suspense. For regardless of its floor fights and devotion to diversity, the "open" Democratic National Convention had arrived at the major decision point with the outcome certain.

Yet, rising above the rhetoric and the tedium was a sense of excitement that edged toward the unendurable. The legions of George Stanley McGovern had labored too hard and long to claim their prize sitting down, despite the rules which said they should.

And the nominations began. George Wallace, said Bob Wilson, will put the ABC's back and take the B-U-S out of education.

Terry Sanford, said Hodding Carter, will stop the killing and end the war.

Scoop Jackson, said Jimmy Carter, will beat Richard Nixon.

The clerk, said Larry O'Brien, will call the roll.

California ... South Carolina ... the Canal Zone, Delaware, the home of "corporations, chickens, chemicals and charisma." Kansas, Washington, Minnesota. And the vote and the tension grew inexorably for the man the oddsmakers had written off long ago.

And then Ohio led to Tennessee and Tennessee led to Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania led to gasps and everybody stood because it all came down to Illinois.

Illinois. Where, in 1968, the McCarthy kids and the McGovern kids and the enrollees of the New politics had draped their standards in black crepe and marched in funeral tread through the aisles and filled the Chicago convention hall with the melancholy sounds of defeat.

But this was not Richard Daley at the microphone. And "Illinois," said chairman Clyde Chouteau, "casts ...

"One-half vote for Wallace.

"Two for Sanford and two for Sen. McCarthy. Three for Sen. Kennedy, three for Congressman Mills.

"Four and one-half for Rep. Chisholm, 5½ for Sen. Muskie, 30½ for Sen. Scoop Jackson."

And then he stopped.

Everybody froze.

It was midnight.

"And one hundred and ninety-nine ..."

Bedlam.

Tumult.

The floor was flooded in blue. "President McGovern," said the posters, and those who held them stomped and sang and cried, this time in victory. McGovern adviser Kenneth Galbraith did a jig with the two nearest - women. McGovern delegate-manager Eli Segal hugged a McGovern delegate.

And Shirley MacLaine, in a final jab at those who said it couldn't be done, jumped up and down with a sign: "Jimmy the Greek, Where are You?"

Agnew eggs 'no-no birds': 'They balk'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has characterized Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and some other Democratic senators as "no-no" birds who balk at progress.

"There is nothing new about crusades against progress," Agnew said Wednesday in a speech also critical of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

The vice president addressed 700 guests at a luncheon of the Printing Industries of America.

Agnew accused the Democrats of displaying an "astounding lack of imagination and foresight" in their opposition to the U.S. development of a supersonic transport and space shuttle.

"If ours were an avian society, these opponents of progress would be the 'no-no' birds. As you know, the 'no-no' bird is a strange little creature that spends most of its time with its head in the sand. And when it does fly, it flies backward because it doesn't want to know where it's going; it just wants to know where it's been."

Agnew said "No-no" birds have tried to discourage many great historical achievements, including the voyage of Christopher Columbus, the invention of the steamboat and electric light, air navigation and rock-etry.

However, the vice president said, "no-no" birds are in danger of extinction.

"They may win a minor victory here and petty triumphs there, but in the end the SSTs are always built and the space shuttles are always launched for progress is man's destiny," he said.

Wallace, whose supporters sat silently while the McGovern backers whooped it up in the hall, remained in seclusion at his hotel.

Earlier in the day, his campaign manager, Charles Snider, said chances of a repeat of the governor's 1968 third-party race for president were growing "stronger and stronger every minute." Skyjacked plane lands at small Texas airport

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two armed hijackers who received a cash ransom and an escape plane flew to a small Texas airport from Philadelphia today.

Two injured crewmen, one shot and the other badly beaten, left the jet as it was surrounded by authorities.

The hijacking of the National Airlines 727 jet was one of two that began Wednesday night. The other hijacking was against American Airlines for a ransom of $550,000 but the lone hijacker gave up at Oklahoma City in the early morning.

The shotgun-wielding hijackers of the plane in Texas took four National Airlines stewardesses, a pilot and a flight engineer from Philadelphia. They demanded $600,000 ransom but officials would not say how much was paid.

The National Boeing 727 landed at Brazoria County Airport, near Lake Jackson about 50 miles south of Houston, the Federal Aviation Administration said.

The pilot and flight engineer were taken to a local hospital, the latter with a gunshot wound in his side. It was not known immediately how he was wounded or how the two crewmen were gotten off the plane.

The hijackers, who in addition to sawed-off shotguns had a box they said contained a bomb, remained on board with three stewardesses. The fourth stewardess escaped, the FAA said, in a manner not known.

The plane's tires blew out on landing, authorities said.

Earlier police reported the tires were shot out.

An FBI spokesman at the scene said negotiations continued with the hijackers.

- 1/4 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce

Chop and steam greens for 5 minutes. Sauté in oil the onion, parsley, garlic, and oregano. Combine all remaining ingredients. (Incidentally, ground nuts are better than chopped, which tend to become too dry.) Shape into a loaf and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. This loaf is not as firm as a meat loaf, so cut gently. Makes one loaf.

Old man Z looked over the dummy carefully. He had to take care of the queen of trumps.

Z remarked, "This looks like a hand I played in Wilbur Whitehead's column back in 1925. In any case, there is no reason not to provide for a possible trump coup."

Then he called for dummy's ace of hearts and a lead of a low heart at trick two.

He ruffed and led a trump to dummy's ace. West showed out.

Z said, "Just as Whitehead set the hand up." Then he led the four of spades and finessed against the queen.

The top diamonds and the ace-king of clubs were cashed next. East had to follow all those leads and Z was home — led another heart from dummy and ruff it. It made no difference whether East ruffed first or discarded his last diamond.

Now Z was left with the king-jack of trumps and a low club. He led the low club. West tried to take the trick, but East had to ruff and lead a trump into Z's tenace.

The care taken at trick two had paid off and Z had scored another slam.

Mrs. Ralph Burch, of Albuquerque, N.M., and Mrs. Johnnie Martin of Capitan, N.M., both great-aunts of the bride, served the wedding cake and punch. Miss Sherry House presided at the bride's book.

Among out-of-state guests here for the ceremony were: Mrs. Roy W. Ratliff, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. John R. Sterrett, Robert and Kelly, aunt and cousins of the bride, all of Santa Fe, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rodgers, Laura and Jeffrey, of Pensacola, Fla.; Mrs. Rodgers is the groom's sister; and Mrs. Wanda Van Cleve, Nora and Phyllis of Farmersville, La.

Following their wedding trip through the Ozarks, the couple will reside at Charleston S.C. where Petty Officer Bailey is stationed with the Navy.

THE GENERATION RAP

Public Necking Just for Kids?

Dear Helen and Sue:
We have an aunt who is divorced, with a teenage son. She's going out with a divorced man.

They hug and kiss whenever they feel like it, which is a lot! They even hold hands going down the street. It looks funny, seeing middle-aged people loving it up in public. Everybody turns around and stares.

Aren't they old enough to know better?—H.P.

Dear H.:

I don't see anything wrong with a middle-aged couple showing a little affection in public, like holding hands...a small kiss or hug. If it's more of a heavy scene—yes, that embarrasses or amuses people, depending on whether they're related to the lovebugs or just out for the view.

However, it's their life so, for now, just turn your head and whistle Dixie.—SUE

Dear H.:

...With emphasis on the "Lookaway" line!

HERE'S A GOOD TEST: If some of your friends publicly necked as much as do your aunt and her boyfriend, would they embarrass you? If not, then you're condemning because of age, not actions.

Remember, the young don't have a monopoly on love.—HELEN

Hey Bottels:

What would you say if you were in a singing group and they did something to make you mad—at least someone told you they said bad things about you—so you quit the group, and you told your mother about it, and she got angry at the group and said you could never go back. Then you decided you liked these kids again and they asked you back and you wanted to go, but your mother was still tee-off and said, "Absolutely Not!!!"

I've never had a big disagreement with my mother before, so how can I change her mind? —DISAPPOINTED SEVENTH GRADER

Disappointed:

Your first mistake was telling your Mom. It's hard for parents NOT to take sides when they hear those awful stories about how mean the kids are to their little girl. And it's hard changing directions, when their little girl finally gets the facts straight.

All you can do now is explain the misunderstanding and how fast kids forget. I think she'll relent.

...And next time, THINK before you say all those bad things about your friends just to get sympathy. Mothers remember long after you wish they wouldn't! —SUE

Dear Disappointed's Mother: (I think Sue is trying to tell me something...But I could remind her of the many times I played Devil's advocate and took the other side of a typical junior high school feud—only to get the typical teenaged girl answer, "But Mo-o-ther, you JUST don't UNDERSTAND how mean they are!")

It's hard not to play Mother Hen when your chick seems threatened, but if you'll look back to your teen years—or even to the last PTA hassle—you'll realize that most quarrels are two-sided, usually blown out of proportion—and as soon blown over, unless someone keeps huffing and puffing.

Don't stay in a huff!—HELEN

Hull won't play in series unless he signs NHL contract

WINNIPEG (AP) — Bobby Hull, the Golden Jet of the National Hockey League for 15 years, said Wednesday it will not be Canada versus Russia in the upcoming exhibition series, but rather, the NHL versus the Russians.

Hull, his voice strained with emotion after being told he will not be allowed to participate in the series unless he signs an NHL contract, said:

"Well then, it's the NHL, against the Russians, not Canada... that's what it amounts to."

"This is supposed to be Hockey Canada, that's the name of the game. The name of the team is Team Canada isn't it?"

"They'll have to change the name to Hockey NHL."

Hull was one of 35 players named Wednesday by Team Canada Coach Harry Sinden to participate in the team's training camp. However, one of the stipulations to playing is that the player must have signed an NHL contract before the training camp opens Aug. 13.

Team Canada is the Hockey Canada-sponsored squad which meets the Russian National team in an eight-game exhibition series Sept. 2-28.

Hull had said last month, when he signed a 10-year, $2.75-million contract with the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association, that he wanted to play for the team against the Russians.

"Harry Sinden and I talked about it before and I asked him about this. He said, 'I'm picking the team and I'll have the players that I want on my team.'"

"So I guess they've changed his mind too... but I think Harry Sinden has got more guts than that," Hull commented.

The 33-year-old Hull, second-highest goal scorer in the history of the NHL, said the stipulation that players must have signed NHL contracts was a retaliatory move by the NHL against the WHA.

Miller shoots course record in British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Young Johnny Miller shot a course-record 66, which included a double eagle, and took the early lead in the British Open Golf Championship today with a two-round total of par 142.

While the young American pro was smashing the Muirfield links, Jack Nicklaus was having early trouble. Nicklaus, the tournament favorite who shot a 70 Wednesday, opened the second round with five straight pars but then took bogeys on the sixth and seventh holes to lose a stroke to par.

Britain's Tony Jacklin, who shot an opening-round 69 to trail Peter Tupling, a little-known British pro, was two under par after 30 holes.

Miller's stunning double eagle came on the 550-yard, par 5 fifth hole when he holed out his second shot to draw a roar from the usually reserved Scots.

Other early finishers included Bill Casper, who shot a 74 for 146; Bert Yancey, 72 for 145, and Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, 70 for 145.

Nicklaus shot a one-under-par 70 in Wednesday's first round over the 6,892-yard Muirfield course.

He was two strokes behind the leader, little-known British pro Peter Tupling, and one behind Britain's Tony Jacklin. Nicklaus, overwhelming favorite to win his third British crown, shared third place with two other American players, Frank Beard and Dave Marr, and two Britons, Peter Townsend and Craig DeFoy.

"My mood and attitude are fine after that first round where I didn't play too well but still managed a fair score," Nicklaus said.

"I'm relaxed."

In all major tournaments over recent months Nicklaus either has led or shared first place from the start in both the Masters and British Open, the first two titles he already has won on the road to the Grand Slam. The British Open and the American PGA next month would complete his greatest ambition.

"I did in the opening round here," Jack said.

"My swing isn't far off what it should be. It's a matter of timing. Maybe I'll do a little more practice."

Defending champion Lee Trevino was one stroke behind Nicklaus with a par 71, along with South Africa's Gary Player, bidding for his third British Open crown.

Doug Sanders, runner-up to Nicklaus in the championship at Muirfield, in 1966 and St. Andrews in 1970, also fashioned a 71.

"My chances are pretty cotton pickin' good," said Sanders.

"I always enjoy coming to Scotland because I can relax here, slow down the pace a bit."

Dodgers are grounded

A Dodgers spokesman said the baseball team, which played the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night and was to fly home after the game, instead would leave Thursday morning.

Chicago will get 1st pick in WHA draft

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Chicago will have first pick today in the 12-member World Hockey Association's supplementary player draft involving some 600 players.

Following Chicago in the draft will be New England, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, Houston, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Winnipeg, Alberta, Quebec and Ottawa. The drafting orders will be reversed in even-numbered rounds.

The draft originally was scheduled for Wednesday, but was postponed to give general managers of the teams more time to familiarize themselves with the procedure.

A WHA spokesman said until now each WHA team has had 150 players on their negotiation list. East team will now be permitted to put 50 of those players on a "freeze" list, with the others available for drafting by other clubs.

White Sox edge Indians 5-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Wilbur Wood is going places—and his knuckleball is going someplace else.

"I don't know myself where it's going," said Chicago White Sox left-hander after winning his 13th game Wednesday night, a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Wood had his favorite pitch dancing in the dark in the first inning, successfully eluding Cleveland hitters. But then the Indians discovered its whereabouts in the second, scoring three runs.

Wood literally held on by his fingertips, giving up just one run the rest of the way while his mates tallied once in the fourth and once more in the ninth on Carlos May's tie-breaking single to pull it out.

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers downed the Texas Rangers 3-1; the Kansas City Royals defeated the Baltimore Orioles 11-4 in 10 innings; the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Oakland A's 7-6; the New York

Bobby loses first match; break-off is threatened

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer today was reported threatening to break off his world championship chess match with Boris Spassky unless all movie cameras are removed from the playing hall.

"It's quite serious. He may not play at all," said a member of Fischer's entourage who asked not to be identified.

Fischer was scheduled to meet the world champion from the Soviet Union later today — at 1 p.m. EDT — for the second game of their 24-game match. The American challenger lost the first game Wednesday night.

Fischer staged a 30-minute workout shortly after the play began Wednesday, complaining that a movie camera 150 feet away was making him nervous.

The camera was hardly visible in the dimness outside the lighted players' circle, and it could not be heard by Fischer, but aides said the knowledge of its presence unnerved him.

Chief referee Lothar Schmid of West Germany, who makes the decisions on all contested points in connection with the match, told Fischer during his workout there was nothing he could do about the camera.

Film and television rights for the match have been sold to an American promoter, and Fischer and Spassky are to get a share of the proceeds, estimated at a minimum of $27,500 each.

"It's up to Lothar Schmid whether Bobby plays," one of Fischer's advisers said today.

Contacted at his hotel, Schmid said: "There will be a match tonight. If Fischer doesn't appear, he will take the consequences."

A member of Fischer's camp said the "legal aspects are being studied."

Richard Stein, a lawyer for the promoter who bought the TV and film rights, Chester Fox, said he was up all night with Fischer's second, the Rev. William Lombardy, and Fred Cramer of the U.S. Chess Federation.

Stein said that at one point Fischer walked in on the meeting, listened for a few minutes and then in a few sentences indicated he was adamant about expelling the cameras. Then he went to bed.

In agreement with Lombardy and Cramer, Stein wrote Fischer a letter at 5 o'clock this morning appealing to the challenger to accept the presence of the cameras and go on playing.

"I hope the letter will move him," Stein said.

Schmid said he was prepared to invoke two rules of the match against Fischer.

Rule 17 prohibits in the name of "the highest principles of sportsmanship" that either player "distract or annoy his opponent."

Rule 21 allows the taking of pictures during the match by official photographers as long as the cameras are "neither visible nor audible."

The camera Fischer objected to was officially sanctioned.

With a maximum of 23 more games to be played, Robert Byrne, the second-ranking U.S. grandmaster, said Fischer's loss "isn't necessarily all that significant. Either of these players can come back and win."

A victory yields one point, a draw half a point, and after Wednesday's match Spassky needed 11 more points in the 24-game series to retain his title.

Fischer needs 12½ points to end the 24-year Soviet monopoly of the title. Today he plays the white pieces, which gives him the first move and a slight advantage.

The first game in the match began Tuesday, and Spassky adjourned it after 40 moves with Fischer in bad straits. Five minutes after the game resumed late Wednesday afternoon, Fischer stood up, spoke animatedly to chief referee Lothar Schmid of West Germany and strode to a backstage dressing room.

Bench's homers carry Reds to 6-3 win

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Grandma and grandpa were there—so little Johnny gave them something to brag about to the gang back home.

Johnny Bench's grandparents, Verda and Lon Chaney, were in the Riverfront stadium stands Wednesday night when Cincinnati collided with Pittsburgh in the battle of National League divisional leaders.

"Grandma wanted a couple of home runs," Bench commented matter-of-factly after he'd given them just that—his 23rd and 24th round-trippers of the baseball season to power the Reds to a 6-3 victory over the Pirates.

In other National League games, the New York Mets shut out San Francisco 4-0, Los Angeles hammered Philadelphia 9-5, St. Louis blanked Atlanta 7-0, Houston outslugged the Chicago Cubs 10-6 and San Diego edged Montreal 6-5.

In the American League, Minnesota mauled Milwaukee 7-1, Detroit defeated Texas 3-1, Boston beat Oakland 7-6, Kansas City clobbered Baltimore 11-4 in 10 innings, the Chicago White Sox slipped past Cleveland 4-3 and the New York Yankees silenced California 5-0.

Grandma and grandpa weren't the only people in the stands that Bench had on his mind. Lou Fonseca, his batting instructor, was also on hand "to point out any of my mistakes," Bench explained.

And how, pray tell, could the Cincinnati slugger, batting a solid .291 with 24 homers and 69 runs batted in—both tops in the majors—possibly be making mistakes?

"Oh, we had some kind of a signal," Bench said, "where I'd look over at Lou and he'd indicate to me any mistakes I was making. Yeah, he pointed out a couple of things," he

Tennis game moves into the ghettos

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennis whites are turning black.

The game traditionally reserved for the white-clad, white-skinned country club set—with Althea Gibson and Arthur Ashe the token exceptions—is spreading to the ghettos.

Kids—black, white, Puerto Rican—are learning the staid old sport, not through endless theory but through instant competition.

"Get down on it, man. Keep at arm parallel to the ground. Keep that wrist up."

"Remember it's accuracy, not speed, that counts."

"Good movement, sweetheart. Gotta get you a pair of sneakers and you'll be that much better."

Eric Werner's booming commands and the kids' shouts of delight bounced off the Central park tennis courts, where usually the subtle "thump" of a ball off a racket is the only sound.

Werner, who is director of the New York Junior Tennis League, squatted on the court front of the net. He scattered balls left and right along the ground and encouraged the kids' sneakers, sandals and colorful jumpsuits, to scurry and return with the ball of the hand.

Quick to follow was that alien instrument—the racket.

Most kids thought it would weigh a ton and that they would have to give it a real wallop to get the ball across the net.

"I thought it was like one of those bats that you have to choke up on," said Raymond Girado, a tousled 12-year-old who wants to play for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team when he grows up.

Girado had arrived that morning at an east side community center with every intention of going swimming. But a little arm-twisting by his director brought him to the tennis courts.

He left with a racket he had won by beating five other youngsters.

The New York JTL is part of the National JTL, established in 1969 by Sheridan G. Snyder, an establishment man from Darien, Conn. His organization has spread to major cities across the country and culminates each year with a national championship, this year in Washington.

At first he had Ashe and Charlie Pasarell teach the kids the game. But they taught theory and lost the kids. Now Ashe is a vice president of the NJTL, and an avid booster. The teachers are people such as Werner, who knows more about street kids than tennis.

Eight die in Ireland

Parades lead to deaths

By COLIN FROST

BELEFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Security forces kept the Protestant marchers and the Roman Catholics apart in Northern Ireland on Wednesday, but at least eight persons were killed before and after the parades on the Protestants' Glorious Twelfth. It was one of the bloodiest days in the province's three years of communal strife.

Seamus Twomey, chief of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing, told newsmen his forces might consider renewing the cease-fire they ended Sunday after 13 days. But he said the British must guarantee there will be no army raids or arrests, no "harassment" of his men, and complete freedom for the Provisionals to move freely, although in "low profile."

There was no immediate reaction from the British.

The celebration of the Protestant victory on July 12, 1690, at the Battle of the Boyne went off peacefully, with 32,000 troops, militia and police sandwiched between the religious factions to head off violence.

But in advance of the marching, on its periphery and in its wake assassins and bombers were hard at work.

Two soldiers were killed and 11 wounded in firefights with IRA guerrillas. The troops, whose death list since 1969 rose to 91, claimed to have wounded or killed at least five of their assailants.

The first to die Wednesday was a Protestant 16-year-old, gunned down as he walked through a park in the town of Portadown.

Then gunmen burst into the Belfast home of a Catholic widow and killed her teen-age son, said to have a mental age of five, as he slept in bed. "This was completely without reason," said a detective. "Where the hell are we going?" There was more violence in Portadown after the marching. Two men — a Catholic and a Protestant — were shot dead in a bar.

Two more bodies were discovered this morning in Belfast.

Sandbagged army replacements came under gun and bomb attack in Londonderry and Belfast.

Bombs damaged a factory in Lurgan, and in Londonderry one big explosion badly damaged a restaurant, a cafe, a department store, two travel offices, a bakery, a pharmacy, a record store and a bank.

Missing captains deliver messages

NEW YORK (AP) — Four recently captured U.S. Air Force captains, previously listed as missing, have delivered filmed messages to their families that they are being treated well by the North Vietnamese and are in good health.

Also seen in the film were a fifth captain seriously wounded, who was silent as he was shown in his hospital bed, and a sixth who gave only the minimal information outlined by the rules governing war.

The film was broadcast Monday on the "CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite," which obtained it from the Denpa News Agency in Tokyo.

"Dearest Sue," said Capt. Charles Allen Jackson of Littleton, Colo., "the Vietnamese people are very kind in seeing to my injuries and are treating me very well. The bones in my arm should heal and I am in good health. I hope you will encourage others to speak up against this unjust war."

Capt. David Ryan Grant of Chattanooga, Tenn., said, "During my capture I was wounded in the right foot. The treatment has been satisfactory. I feel fine except for the foot. I love you and the boys very much."

"Dear Linda," said Capt. David Dingee of Homestead, Fla., "I have been well treated. My health is good. Our shelter and clothes are adequate. Don't worry about me. I love you and the boys very much. I hope to get home to see you soon."

Capt. William David Beekman of Toledo, Ohio, said, "I have had enough food to eat. Please don't worry about me and just take care of yourself. Say hello to Tina and give her my everlasting love. Remember, I love you all and hope to return some day. Take care. All my love, Bill."

A CBS spokesman said the interviews were conducted in Hanoi on June 29. The film narrator said the officers were captured between April and June.

Capt. John Cerak of New Jersey gave only his name, rank, serial number and date of birth. He said he was shot down June 27.

The wounded man filmed at St. Paul's Hospital in Hanoi was identified as Capt. Richard Logan Francis of California. The home towns of Francis and Cerak were unavailable.

Don Gilbert named head of Optimists

Don Gilbert was elected president of the Optimist Club of Hope at the official organization meeting of the new service club Tuesday held at Town And Country Restaurant.

The club, formed by 41 business, industry and professional men of Hope, will hold breakfast meetings on Thursday at 8:15 at the Town And Country.

Riner J. Fletcher, field representative of the international service club organization headquartered in St. Louis, Mo., presided over the official organization meeting and will be conducting indoctrination sessions with the new club's officers and committees during the next few days. The new club was sponsored by the Optimist Club of Texarkana, and representatives of the sponsoring organization attended the meeting.

The new Optimist club will become a part of the Arkansas District, of which Dr. Jess Coker of Monticello, Ark. is the governor.

All-Star game is questioned

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals says the National Football League should consider cutting ties with the annual College All-Star Game.

The game, which pits last year's top senior players against the Super Bowl champion is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities.

Brown says the pro teams put their interests in jeopardy when they expose prize rookies to the chance of injury in the game, not to mention the time the first-year players lose from pro training camps.

"I don't see where any of our kids have any obligation" to the All-Star game, Brown said Wednesday.

HALL TREASURER—Sheryl Bright of Hope has been elected treasurer of Nelson Hall at Southern State College for the 1972-73 school year, according to Mrs. Pat Weaver, dean of women students. Miss Bright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.O. Bright of Hope, is a 1971 graduate of Hope High School.

Coalition plans to raise money and plan campaigns

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With an eye toward building a 1976 power base, the coalition that sought unsuccessfully to block the nomination of Sen. George S. McGovern now says it will start efforts to raise money and plan the campaigns of state and congressional candidates.

Forming the coalition were Democratic leaders who had controlled the party's presidential nominations for years—labor, state and big city bosses and congressional veterans.

Many were dissatisfied with McGovern's proposals to cut military spending, revise the welfare system and heavily tax the wealthy.

It was no secret that one of the chief figures in the coalition was crusty George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, who had spread word that he would sit out the election if McGovern was nominated.

At coalition caucuses during the convention, a Meany aide, John Perkins often stressed that Meany meant what he said and was planning to throw labor's manpower and $6 million campaign chest entirely behind House, Senate and gubernatorial candidates.

Other members of the coalition which met often during the convention include key aides of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Edmund S. Muskie and Henry M. Jackson, Gov. George C. Wallace and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

While some aligned with McGovern on certain issues, many were reportedly embittered over several parliamentary decisions during the convention which, they believe, helped McGovern nail down the nomination on the first ballot.

One was a ruling that 120 California McGovern delegates were eligible to vote on the challenge brought by the coalition against the state's winner-take-all primary. The coalition felt none of the 271 California delegates should have been eligible to vote since, in effect, the entire primary was being challenged.

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, acting convention chairman, ruled, however, the 120 could vote since they were awarded in proportion to McGovern's popular vote.

O'Brien also ruled that only 1,433 votes were needed to decide the challenge because that was a majority of delegates excluding the 151 under challenge. An absolute majority was 1,509.

"If it were not for those rulings, the new group of McGovern delegates would not have been sitting out there to vote on his nomination," said one member of the coalition. "Instead of getting 1,618 votes during the credentials battle, he would have had only 1,498 without the 120 votes O'Brien gave them, 11 votes short of a majority."

George Washington witnessed the first balloon flight in America when a manned flight from Philadelphia to Woodbury, N. J., lasted 46 minutes and covered 15 miles.

TOO COLD TO ROT
WELLINGTON, N. Z. (AP) — Environment-conscious New Zealanders are fighting pollution in Antarctica.

A high-temperature incinerator is to be installed in the year-end Antarctic summer at New Zealand's Scott Base to burn human waste and all trash.

Says the head of New Zealand's Antarctic program, Robert B. Thomson: "The disposal of trash in the Antarctic is an increasing problem. The cold, dry climate prevents any microbiological or chemical action taking place; so no rotting of waste materials can occur."

Oklahoma will back Mills for VP nomination

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most of Oklahoma's uncommitted delegates kept their desires secret until the end and, when the tally was made at the Democratic National Convention Tuesday night, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington got 23 1/2 of their votes for the presidential nomination.

Sen. McGovern, who won the nomination, got 10 1/2 Oklahoma votes, 1 1/2 more than he expected. J. C. Kennedy, the state Democratic chairman, joined with nine committed McGovern delegates and Mike Rainbolt chipped in one-half vote.

Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford got four votes and one went to Rep. Shirley Chisholm. One McGovern vote switched to Rep. Chisholm after it no longer mattered.

Most of Jackson's votes would have gone to Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas if his name had been placed in nomination, Gov. David Hall, the delegation chairman, said after the votes were reported on the convention floor.

Prisoner speaks out at Lod trial

LOD, Israel (AP) — An Israeli military court today ordered a sanity hearing for Kozo Okamoto after he admitted full responsibility for the people he killed in the Tel Aviv airport massacre, claimed he is a professional soldier in the Red Army of Japanese radicals and warned that the organization "will slay anyone who stands on the side of the bourgeoisie."

"Ours is world revolution," he said, his face impassive. "The revolutionary war will carry on.... We must establish worldwide proletarian rule."

The survivor of the three Japanese terrorists who attacked the crowd in the airport May 30 with machine guns and grenades spoke out shortly after the prosecution rested its case.

Rep. Carl Albert, speaker of the House, was scheduled to nominate Mills, a friend of 30 years, but Mills pulled out of the race Wednesday afternoon.

Hall said the Oklahoma delegation was pushing to get McGovern to pick Mills as his running mate.

"If he picks Mills, we've got a fighting chance to carry Oklahoma for him," Hall said.

The 24-year-old Japanese said the attack, in which 28 persons were killed and 67 were wounded, was to "benefit revolutionary warfare, which I define as a war of justice."

Okamoto contended that the three-man military tribunal did not have the authority to try him, that in the new society which his Red Army hoped to establish there would be no judicial courts. But he added that he accepted his own trial "as a means of propaganda."

Okamoto is being tried on four charges, three of which could bring the death penalty. He is expected to get a life sentence. His two Japanese accomplices were killed in the slaughter.

When it became apparent that McGovern had enough votes for the nomination, Miss Miles switched her vote to Rep. Chisholm, the first black woman ever nominated for the presidency.

Henry Likes, Julie Price, Obera Bergdall and Edna May Phelps voted for Sanford.

LEADS REVIVAL—Rev. Forrest Sheffield, student at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas will be the preacher for the "Youth-Led Revival at Calvary Baptist Church here Friday through Sunday.

Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights and at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. The music will be under the direction of David Packard, also a student at the Fort Worth Seminary. Miss Vickie Veatch, of the Calvary Church will be the pianist.

George promises more jobs for nation's blacks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern has promised to give federal jobs to blacks in proportion to their population in each state if he is elected president. Walter E. Fauntroy, non-voting delegate to the House of Representatives from the District of Columbia, said Wednesday.

Fauntroy said McGovern made the promise when black leaders pledged to deliver votes to the South Dakota senator.

After the California primary, Fauntroy said he and several McGovern supporters contacted uncommitted black delegates and asked "to assess together what we would ask for in return for the support of a bloc of black votes which our arithmetic showed would lead to a first ballot victory."

Besides promising to hire more blacks, McGovern also accepted the "Black Bill of Rights" and most elements of the Black Agenda, which was adopted at the Black Political Convention in Gary, Ind., Fauntroy said.

Fauntroy said original plans of blacks called for a large bloc of votes to remain uncommitted until after the first ballot, but that plans were changed when McGovern won back his California delegates, practically clinching the nomination.

"I made certain commitments to Shirley Chisholm," Fauntroy said, "and encouraged her candidacy."

Tax trial of Mutt Jones continues; IRS agent testified yesterday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An agent for the Internal Revenue Service testified Wednesday he decided to investigate state Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway because Jones "didn't report very much income in relation to what you would think a man of his reputation would be earning."

Agent Halley Hoggatt's testimony came in the trial in U. S. District Court here of Jones, who is charged with evading income taxes and filing false tax returns for 1965 and 1966.

Hoggatt said another reason he initiated the investigation was that Jones had acquired several pieces of rental property and the income reported on his tax returns did not seem large enough to support these purchases.

Jones' tax returns, previously introduced into evidence, show a net profit from his law practice of $5,000 in 1961, $5,436 in 1962, $6,355 in 1963, $4,995 in 1964, $4,292 in 1965, $8,514 in 1966 and $20,806 in 1967.

Hoggatt said he conducted his investigation in March and April 1968 concluded from a net worth computation that Jones had "substantially understated" his income for 1965 and turned the case over to Special Agent James A. Brown for investigation of possible criminal law violations.

Brown testified Wednesday about a detailed analysis he made of disbursements in 1965 and 1966 from three checking accounts maintained by Jones, one of them a joint account with his wife, who operates a beauty salon and beauty school.

Brown said that checks written on the three accounts totaled $38,871.78 in 1965 and $47,624.91 in 1966. Records had been introduced earlier in the trial to show the deposits.

On cross-examination by Leon B. Catlett of Little Rock, Jones' attorney, Brown said he had worked on Jones' tax case for three years, but not full time. He said he was pulled off the case for one of the three years to work on another matter.

Hoggatt and Brown told about conversations with Jones. They said Jones told them that he kept large amounts of cash where it would be readily available.

"He felt he could make money if he kept large amounts of cash on him," Hoggatt said. "I asked him what would be the most he might ever have at any one time and he said back during the years of 1964 and 1965 that he might have had as much as $5,000 in currency on him, which was rather unusual. So I asked him where he would keep such a large sum of money, and he said that sometimes he kept it in his law office, and for a period of time there was a friend of his, Billy Mabry, who had held this money for him."

The government has presented testimony that Jones collected many of his legal fees in cash and frequently made large purchases in cash.

The trial was to continue at 9:30 a.m. today. Judge J. Smith Henley said after the government rests its case he probably would recess the trial until Monday, when the defense will begin its presentation.

Petition drive underway

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (AP) — A petition drive has been launched at the Democratic National Convention to get the name of Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris into the vice presidential race.

Ray Pearcey Jr., a teenage from Tulsa, said he and Him Barrett of Oklahoma City are involved in the drive. Harris submitted a minority plank to the convention Tuesday night, and is not seeking re-election to his Senate seat.

Under party rules, a candidate can be nominated by a petition signed by 50 to 200 persons, with the petition being submitted by 12 hours before the balloting.
